

Multi-programming is the first instance where the OS must make decisions for the users

Job scheduling — decides which job should be loaded into the memory.

Memory management — because several programs in memory at the same time

CPU scheduling — choose one job among all the jobs are ready to run

Process management — make sure processes don't offend each other

